The seller shall be entitled to six months trial following the return of the animal in which to prove that the animal is a breeder. If at the end of six months the seller is unable to prove the animal is a breeder, the seller shall, at the option of the buyer, replace the animal with another of equal value or refund the purchase price. The return of the full purchase price, shall in any case be deemed full satisfaction and settlement. Any expense incurred for transportation shall be the responsibility of the purchaser, except that the seller shall be responsible for transportation costs in excess of the distance between the purchaser's farm and the location where the sale took place.

4. If a female sold as 'served' proves not to be in calf, the purchaser may obtain service from the bull previously used, or if not available, then the purchaser may obtain service from any other bull owned by the seller. Any expense incurred for this service shall be agreed upon between purchaser and seller.

5. If a female sold as 'pasture bred' proves not to be in calf, the purchaser may return such female to the farm of the seller at the purchaser's expense to be served to the bull previously used, if available, or to any other bull made available by the seller that is acceptable to the purchaser.

6. If a female sold as 'open' proves to be with calf, the purchaser may return the animal to the farm of the seller prior to calving for a refund of the full purchase price or for another animal of equal value, whichever is acceptable to the purchaser. It shall be the obligation to the seller to bear any expense incurred for transportation.

RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS

1. The above terms and conditions of sale shall constitute a contract between the buyer and seller of each animal and shall be equally binding upon both. Each sale or resale of an animal constitutes a separate transaction.

c. The animal will be returned by the buyer to the seller at the buyer's expense; provided the animal meets the health requirements of the seller's state.

d. The return of the purchase price in connection with a dwarf producing animal shall be deemed full satisfaction and settlement.

2. In the event that such representatives fail to agree a third person selected by the representatives of the buyer and seller shall make the determination.

PARTIAL OWNERSHIP BULLS

1. Partial ownership interest bulls sold in this sale may be subject to a formalized joint ownership agreement between the parties. These agreements cover such subjects as rights of possession, the collection, storage and division of semen, the disposition of owners interest and other related matters. THE ANGUS STORY

Angus cattle were introduced in the United States 90 years after Shorthorns, 56 years after the Herefords and 29 years after the Brahman. Even though they came to America in 1873, the American Angus Association is the world's largest beef registry. There are nearly 35,000 active Angus breeders and over 10,000 active Junior members with registered Angus cattle in this great country.

The breed was founded in Scotland. It is the only breed developed for beef purposes only. The black doddies were a black, harmless beef animal used in Scotland to improve the quality of the native beef cattle and they have gained popularity in the United States for the same reason, to produce the highest quality beef.

They have gained popularity because they are naturally harmless, black in color, have no cancer eye, have less pinkeye and have less calving difficulty. The Angus female is exceptionally fertile and are considered to be the queen of the beef cow. They are excellent mothers with a lot of milk and will breed back as soon or quicker than any other beef cow after calving.

Their easy fleshing quality makes them highly desirable because the steers will be ready for market 30-45 days sooner than any other breed. Angus and Angus crossbred top the fat market 80 percent of the time.

These are just some of the reasons Angus have gained so much popularity in recent years.

THE SHORTHORN STORY

Born in the Tees River Valley of Northern England in the early 1600's, the Shorthorn has enriched cattlemen and cattle herds in more than 70 countries throughout the world. Widely adaptable, the fast - gaining "red - roan - 'n - white" cattle arrived in the United States in 1783, landing in Virginia under the label of "Durham." The Shorthorn was America's first beef improver, and was a familiar sight in the wagon trains of migrating western pioneers. Shorthorn bulls were used extensively to cross on the prevailing Longhorns. The first American herd book for Shorthorn was published in 1846, and breeders organized the American Shorthorn Association in 1882. The breed is presently enjoying a resurgence in popularity. To better identify superior bloodlines of Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns, the Association offers members opportunities to participate in herd improvement programs - Herd Classification, Record of Performance, and Sire of the Year. Breed enthusiasts take special pride in listing present - day beef breeds which owe a share of their origin to Shorthorns -- Santa Gertrudis Beefmaster, Maine-Anjou. For more information write to American Shorthorn Association, 8288 Hascall, Omaha, Nebraska 68124.

THE POLLED HEREFORD STORY

An idea, conceived by a young Iowa Hereford breeder, Warren Gammon of Des Moines, spawned the Polled Hereford breed. Convinced that hornless Herefords were both possible and practical, he launched his dream in 1901 with 11 registered Herefords which were naturally hornless. From this foundation has emerged one of America's great success stories the Polled Hereford breed. In 69 years, Gammon's dream and 11 foundation animals has grown into 3 million registered Polled Herefords and hornless whitefaces in every beef producing country in the world. In 1907, Gammon and other pioneer breeders incorporated the American Polled Hereford Breeders Association, with headquarters in Des Moines. In 1947, the organization acquired its present identity, and moved to Kansas City, Missouri. One of the breed's "headline" accomplishments was the air-freight shipment of more than 10,000 Polled Herefords to Chile between 1968-70, largest exportation in United States history. APHA offers members "Standard of Perfection" program which emphasizes top performance and show ring excellence. For more information write American Polled Hereford Association, 4700 E. 63rd Street, Kansas City, Missouri 64130.

THE HEREFORD STORY

The Hereford has become symbolic of the United States beef cattle industry. Attesting to the statistic the 70 percent of America's beef cattle population carry the "whiteface" stamp are the files of the American Hereford Association which contain the names and ancestry of more than 15 million purebred Herefords. AHA was first to computerize registration procedures and certificate printouts. Electronic data processing ushered in a new era for Hereford breeders and gave birth to TPR (Total Performance Records) program which offers members valuable genetic information (1) Breeding Herd Performance, (2) Show Ring Performance, and (3) Feedlot and Carcass Performance. The whirring, blinking computers at AHA are a far cry from the breed's "eye-of-the-master-breeders" beginning in Herefordshire, England. Statesman Henry Clay brought the first Herefords to the United States. W. H. Sotham and E. Corning established the first purebred herd near Albany, N.Y. Demand for Herefords zoomed in the 1880's. Breed set a milestone first in 1886 when a two-year-old Hereford steer won Grand Championship in Chicago, youngest-ever. For more information write American Hereford Association, Hereford Drive, Kansas City, Kansas 64105.

Tiny is a top young sire used in the Les Holden herd for two years then purchased by Baker Hereford Ranch. 272 sired the top 205 and 365 day wts. in the 1976 Cooper - Holden Sale. He is a very tall, outstanding bull with excellent balance and correctness. Tiny is an easy calving bull siring a very uniform lot of progeny that display a definite pattern for growth. We recently sold interests in Tiny to L & H Herefords, Baker Oregon and Russ Nelson, Brimfield, Illinois.

THE CHAROLAIS STORY

Charolais cattle originated centuries ago in France and were developed for draft, beef and milk production. Today they are the most popular breed in France.

In 1930, 1931, and 1937, shipments totaling 37 full blood Charolais cattle (8 bulls and 29 cows) were imported to North America. The last 20-30 years has been the period of most phenomenal growth of Charolais cattle since their importation to the United States. It was the late 1950's that saw Charolais come to North Dakota and South Dakota. They have continued to increase in popularity since, with many people still asking what makes Charolais different. Overall size and adaptability to varied climatic conditions, a body meant for red meat production and efficient gains.

Quality carcasses and more net salable meat production are only a few of the economic factors favoring Charolais cattle.

Charolais cows stand out from other breeds as the matron of the range. They are unsurpassed in necessary body size and pelvic opening -- qualities that help eliminate calving difficulties, and she's unsurpassed in her ability to put a healthy, fast-growing calf on the ground and keep it growing. What's more, Charolais females have more live calves and wean a greater percentage of their calves.

Charolais sired calves have won innumerable carcass shows in the past 15 years. These high-cutability calves have led the way in revolutionizing the beef industry. The acceptance of leaner beef indicates a rapidly expanding commercial market for the Charolais and Charolais-type meat animal.

THE AMERICAN BUFFALO STORY

When Columbus discovered America, an estimated 30 - to 60 - million buffalo roamed the Great Plains of North America. Scientists have traced the buffalo, the largest of the North American wild animals, back through the evolutionary span to the twilight of the Pliocene epoch, the last temperate period before the continental ice sheets began creeping down from the North. Approximately 25,000 years ago the genus Bison (buffalo) passed from Asia over the Bering Straight land bridge to North America. The somewhat larger animal than its ancestor probably crossed the Bering Straight once again about 12,000 years ago when ice-free corridors developed in the glacier.

These immigrants evidently adapted well to the environment of the North American Great Plains, and they flourished in huge numbers. Early explorers to the heart of buffalo country described the immense size of the herds in many ambitious ways. "There is such quantity of them I do not know what to compare them with, except fish in the sea." "We could not see their limit either North or West." "The Plains were black and appeared as if in motion." "The country was one robe." With such spectacular descriptions surely there was never a shortage of food for the people who inhabited these great grasslands.

The Plains Indian lived very well during those days. The buffalo was not only his main diet, but it also meant shelter and clothing. The staples of life were all derived from Tatonka. It was their life, their blood, their future and their culture. Only the Great Spirit himself was put above Tatonka. And to most Plains Indians Tatonka symbolized the Great Spirit.

Virtually every portion of the buffalo was used by the Indians. To the Indian there were numerous ways to prepare buffalo meat for consumption. Some parcels were eaten raw, some were cooked and other portions were dried for pemmican. The hides made footwear, clothing and shelter. Sinew was used for sewing and binding. Bones were utilized as tools. Skulls were worshipped. There was practically no part of the Indian life in which Tatonka did not play a part.

Tatonka was hunted in various ways. One of the earliest methods of hunting was by group surroundment on foot. By getting the animals to mill within the ring they formed, the Indians were able to fire large volleys of arrows into the herd until they downed an adequate number. Another method was to drive the animals into large natural traps or stampede herds over cliffs, into bogs or blind canyons.

In the 16th Century, when horses were acquired by the Plains Indians, buffalo hunting became much easier. The most famous hunting technique and also the most proficient was the "horse surround." Several hundred riders would form semicircles on two sides of a herd, then move in until they created a circle around its entirety. As pressure was applied by the oncoming riders, the buffalo would begin to get confused, start milling and eventually stampede into a frenzied milling mass. At that point the riders would move in on the excited tightly grouped animals and begin the slaughter with showers of arrows and plunging lances. Sometimes more than a thousand buffalo were taken by this method. It proved to be so successful that early market hunters employed such tactics from the Indians.

As every good thing comes to an end so it was for the buffalo era. Trappers, adventurers, gold seekers and the rest of the likes of mankind began pushing West. The railroad appeared, the rancher, the farmer, the hunter with rifle, and the end came quickly. Organized market hunters in quest of hides and tongues began an efficient and speedy bloody annihilation of the once - immense herds. Finally by the 1880's, only a few remnant bands of buffalo remained. If it had not been for a handful of thoughtful individuals, the extinction of Tatonka would have become a reality. From millions to only a few hundred in several decades, it was almost unbelievable, but it was true.

Men such as Michel Pablo of Montana, Col. Charles Goodnight of Texas, C.J. Jones of Wyoming, and Pete Dupree of South Dakota were responsible for preserving those remaining few. For several years private individuals owned almost all remaining animals. Dr. William Harnoday, president of the New York Zoological Society, and Martin Garretson, secretary of the American Bison Society, were in the forefront of those who finally awoke the nation to the fact that buffalo were about to pass from the scene. Subsequently, national state parks obtained some of the descendents from those few remaining.

As the years passed, offspring began to increase and numbers began building. By the 1920's and 1930's park herds showed notable gains. Places such as Custer State Park and Wind Cave National Park in South Dakota, Yellowstone National Park, the National Bison Range and a few Indian reservations began providing surplus animals to other areas, and the great beast started showing signs of progress.

When the 1950's and 60's rolled around, small private herds sprung into existence throughout many parts of the United States. In 1966 the National Buffalo Association was born, created by a group of individuals with a definite goal in mind. Headquarters of the association was established in Fort Pierre, South Dakota (heart of the original buffalo country), and membership began growing rapidly. The purpose of the organization is to promote and propagate the American buffalo.

Buffalo are relatively docile by nature, but they are very unpredictable. Sometimes humans can walk to within only a few feet of the animals before they will bother to move. Again the same situation may produce an aggressive charging belligerent beast. Probably the best philosophy would be to always give a buffalo room.

Mature cows weigh around 1,000 pounds, bulls average 1,500 pounds with some weighing more than a ton. Generally, a heifer will breed when she reaches age two and often times at one. Breeding season is in July and August. Bulls, which ordinarily remain separate from the cows, begin gathering a harem as summer approaches. Pawing the dirt, bellowing loudly and raising their tails they will challenge other rival bulls to a fight. After squaring off a few yards apart, they will raise their tails, lower their heads, charge and collide head on, absorbing the impact on their foreheads rather than their horns. Time and time again the collision is repeated until one gives up defeated. When a bull becomes victorious, he will chose his harem and begin servicing the females as they come in heat.

Gestation period of buffalo varies from 270 to 285 days, with most young being born in May. Almost always a cow will give birth to a single calf; occasionally there will be twins. Calves vary from red to cinnamon when they are born. By the time summer ends, most of them have taken on the chocolate color of their parents. Newborn calves show no sign of the hump trademark until they reach about two months, about the same time small black knobs depicting future horns become noticeable.

Average life span of buffalo is about 25 years; many cows live to be over 40, stay healthy, and continue to bear young.

A range that has been frequented by the gregarious creature exhibits many scars. Grasslands pitted by wallows and paths worn deep by traveling herds are characteristic of buffalo country. Buffalo derive much pleasure from wallowing. The animal's sharp hump serves as a proficient earth mover. As wallows are used time and time again, they become quite large and serve as a traditional place to roll from year to year. Not only is the fine dirt cooling to the beasts but also serves as a means of ridding themselves of parasites.

Buffalo need little care. They seem to be endowed with instincts for survival that cattle lack. They can survive storms where most other large beasts would perish. They can have and care for their young in sub - zero temperatures and in blizzards. They are truly a remarkable animal to raise domestically.

Now that buffalo have been spared from an apparent destiny of extinction, they are being looked upon as a new dimension for the American consumer. After being reduced to a low of about 540 animals in the United States and 250 Wood buffalo in Canada, the number have since been increased to about 60,000 head.

Surplus animals from the numerous individual herds throughout the United States are being offered to the consumer at prices moderately higher than beef and are rapidly finding their own segment in the commodity market.

The National Buffalo Association is composed of a group of individuals dedicated to the future of the buffalo as a part of our heritage and as a very useful marketable commodity.

Research in recent years has shown that buffalo meat contains up to 25 percent more protein than beef; it is non - allergenic and is very low in cholesterol. Besides these virtues, it takes smaller portions to satisfy an appetite.

Attributes such as these have made the very tasty meat a favorite of individuals with health problems.

Thanks to the small group of individuals of 80 years ago, the state and national parks since then and the National Buffalo Association, the American buffalo is once again flourishing. Management techniques in all areas of the United States have the buffalo at a level where they are aesthetically safe, commodity sound, and where continual increasing numbers are contingent only upon how much room the holders of our great grasslands provide for them.

FROM GRASS TO CASH

These four words could well be the slogan of the Black Hills Stock Show. From 1959 to 1976 more than Two Million Dollars have been realized from the sale of 3,675 purebred cattle consigned from 12 States and Canada to the Black Hills Stock Show at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Rapid City, South Dakota.

Originally named the "Black Hills Winter Show", this purebred cattle show has become the largest and most important event of the Rapid City Chamber of Commerce winter season. The combined cooperation of the Rapid City Chamber of Commerce, the Representatives and Fieldmen of the separate breeds of cattle consigned, and the Black Hills Stock Show Committee of Central States Fair helped formulate the objectives and achieve the desired results. Through the years the ideals have been:

1. To develop a strong market as an annual event through which purebred cattle producers may sell their cattle.

2. To provide a quality market where local ranchers and stockmen may purchase needed purebred cattle to upgrade quality of cattle in the entire area. More than 80 percent of the consignments have been sold to stockmen within 200 miles of Rapid City.

3. To provide other events of interest to farmers, ranchers, and their families in our area.

The general policy of the Show:

1. An annual event scheduled during the first or second week of February.

2. To be operated as an "open" Show and Sale. Consignments will be accepted from all states and Canada.

3. All livestock consigned must be sold and a check or cash payment cleared through the auction process.

At the first show in 1959, there were 103 purebred cattle consigned from the Angus, Shorthorn and Horned Hereford producers. The sale grossed $62,925.

Polled Herefords were added in 1962 and Galloway cattle were entered for the first time in 1964. Charolais cattle were added to the 1968 Show and the event was extended to six days to accommodate the Show and Sale of each of six breeds.

The event now includes the Junior Livestock Judging Contest sponsored by the Pennington County Extension Service. The Ground Beef Cook - Off sponsored by the Black Hills Power and Light Company is another popular added feature which increases participation of both boys and girls in the creation and preparation of original ground beef recipes.

The many social activities have included the festive breed mixers sponsored by many of the breed consignors the night preceeding the show and sale of that breed. Each mixer featured the breed "queen", a young lady chosen through competition to represent and promote the breed of cattle at the Black Hills Stock Show and throughout the year.

The Black Hills Stock Show with its added features had now become too great a responsibility to be produced entirely by volunteer members of the Rapid City Chamber of Commerce. Harry Knight, then Manager of Central States Fair, also became Manager of the Winter Show.

In 1969, there were 329 entries from six breeds and the Market Steer Show and Carcass Judging Contest were initiated. These were sponsored by the Black Hills Packing Company, Rapid City,

The Rapid City Chamber of Commerce and the Central States Fair co - sponsored the Winter Show for the first time in 1971.

A Youth Recognition and Awards Banquet, Pancake Breakfast, and Sunday Religious Services were added, with special emphasis placed on youth activities.

Women's programs were now included with a wide variety of featured authorities demonstrating and talking on home - ranch related activities. Not only women from the ranch areas attended these programs, but many of the wives of the Chamber of Commerce members found them of great value and interest.

On the final day of the show (Sunday) 250 Buffalo were brought to the Central States Fairgrounds by the South Dakota Department of Game, Fish and Parks. The Buffalo were sold in front of the Grandstand.

The year 1972 saw the addition of the Limousin breed of cattle, as well as a Horse Sale grossing $4,585.

The 1973 Show did not include any Galloway cattle, but a sale of Dairy cattle brought $13,660. The sale of horses amounted to $9,320.

The 1974 Show saw a continuation of the events of the previous year, with no Galloway cattle entered, and no sale of Dairy cattle. The sale of 37 horses brought in $8,240 and an auction sale of automobiles added another $81,380.

The 1975 Show found only four breeds showing and selling. The gross cattle sales for Angus, Shorthorn, Horned Hereford and Polled Hereford total $104,337.00. The Horse Sale grossed $8,105.00 and the Annual Buffalo Sale held on Saturday at Custer State Park had a gross sale of $104,260.00.

In 1976, the Stock Show again became a five cattle breed Show and Sale with the breeds being American Angus, Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn, Horned Hereford, Polled Hereford and Charolais. The total for the cattle sale was $133,970 reflecting one of the largest total dollars ever. The Buffalo Sale also showed a marked increase in total sales as the Buffalo brought $135,435. The Horse Sale was moved from Saturday to Sunday and through the extra efforts of Chairmen Dick Bray and Darrell Hoar the total sales more than doubled from the previous year as the 37 head sold for a total of $16,450. Other innovations for 1976 included a "Stallion Row" with some of the area's finest registered stallions on display for the full week of the Stock Show. Also several "Beefalo" were exhibited during the week and the various cattle breeders were given the opportunity to display "exhibit only" cattle for their breed and not sell those specific animals.

An extra effort was made to involve the entire community in the Stock Show and several civic organizations held their regular meetings at the Fairgrounds during the week of the Stock Show.

The hundreds of people who have worked, planned, and co-operated to help make this Black Hills Winter Show a success through the years do not need a special mention. They know what they did helped Rapid City, our ranchers and stockmen, and brought a greater understanding between the town and country people. However, one person deserves special mention. Ann Fields, Stock Show Secretary from 1959 to 1967, soothed and smoothed ruffled tempers; handled innumerable problems; and with her ready smile and dedicated service helped tremendously to assure the continuation of the event.
